Much Applause Accorded Scottish Harvesters At Their Chauvin Concert

The Oddfellows hall was well filled last Tuesday evening when the concert was given by the Scottish Harvesters from Ribstone. Applause was frequent and very hearty, and the whole program was well staged and keenly enjoyed by the audience. Mr. T. W. Campbell being indefatigable not alone as the director of the concert party, but also in the vigorous manner in which he presented the large number of his contributions to the program. The quality of pantomimic comedy in this company has been well developed, and contributes largely to the success of their entertainment, being appreciated by the audience because the wit is both local and timely. The house being filled with applause when Campbell remarked, after being removed from the stage by a ble coated constable: "This is the second time I've been arrested in Chauvin. By a quick and skilful change T. W. Campbell passed from the ridiculous to the sentimental and rendered an old ballad with all the pathos the theme demanded.

With masterly art Mr. Walter McBeth delighted the audience in a series of Scotch dances, also Irish jigs and hornpipes. Mr. George Swan and Mr. Dick Ainscough, as harmonizers and actors filled many roles with great skill.

The dramatized song "Grannie" was a clever presentation, and judging from the impression it made on the audience it will be long time before it's memory fades. The last item on the program was a farce entitled "The Lunatic Ayslum."

Mrs. H. N. Freeman acted as pianoist for the concert party.

Farm Help

The Colonization and Development Department of the Canadian National Railways, having this year placed with western farmers several thousand immigrants for the season's work, is now turning its attention to the matter of continued employment for those men during the coming winter.

Many, of course, are placed for a full year, and some will engage in bush work, but as some are engaged only until freeze up, the department would like to hear from farmers who can employ men for the winter months, or for

Roads Question Looms Large At Merton Council Meeting; Lands To Be Sold By Auction For Tax Arrears

Minutes of the meeting of the council of Municipal District of Merton, No. 451, held in Winona school on Saturday, August 9th, when there were present the reeve and all the councillors.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

A discussion took place with reference to the proposed construction of a road leading to the new town on the C. P. R. It was decided to obtain the services of a surveyor and have the diversion surveyed, if possible before the work was started.

An allotment of $50.00 from Division 2 was voted to be spent for the benefit of these ratepayers in division 2 who would use the road after it was built.

A petition was read from ratepayers of division 6, asking for a bridge to be put in across the Blackfoot coulee between township 46 and 47, in range 1.

After discussion it was moved and carried that a temporary bridge be built across the coulee at the stone crossing; and the sum of not over $50 was voted for that purpose.

A petition was read from the ratepayers of division 4, asking council to establish a road diversion across section 31; 46: 3.

It was moved and carried that council proceed to establish a

Oddfellows And Rebekahs Give Wedding Social

A very pleasant social evening was spent by the members of the Chauvin Oddfellow and Rebekah lodges and their guests at a social last Wednesday evening. After a card party, the floor was cleared for dancing, which was greatly enjoyed until supper was served.

After refreshments, Mr. C. G. Forryan, on behalf of the Oddfellow and Rebekah lodges, explained that the members wished to take this opportunity to express their good wishes to the guests of honor of the evening, viz; Mr and Mrs. R. Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. G. Gibb, members of the lodges who had recently entered the estate of matrimony; and also to another brother, Mr. A. Petrie, who had recently married in Scotland. As a token of the esteem in which these members were held by the brothers and sisters of the two lodges, he presented Mr. and Mrs. Nelson, and Mr. and Mrs. Gibb, each with a piece of cut glass ware, which had been subscribed for by the lodges; and to Mr. and Mrs. A. Petrie, a case of cutlery. The speaker also welcomed the presence of yet another recently wedded couple, Mr and Mrs Shea, and on behalf of the lodges wished them a long and happy wedded life.

Suitable replies having been by the recipients, dancing was resumed until the early morning hours.

ONE OF NATURE'S WONDERS

The Devil's Potholes

MALIGNE CANYON, in Jasper National Park, is one of the natural wonders of the entire Rocky Mountain region. A vast cleft in the solid rock, reaching a depth of some 200 feet, and so narrow in places that one may step across it easily, draws from the tourist expressions of awe and wonder at the power of accumulated forces of water.

Tumbling headlong down the narrow gorge goes the Maligne River, mysterious as to its source and for part of its length a subterranean stream, on its way to join the quieter waters of the Athabasca far below. At times on its passage through the narrow gorge, it tumbles more than one hundred feet in a sheer drop, its eddies being churned to foam as the waters beat a tattoo against the rocky sides of the canyon on their downward leap.

From the footbridges which span the narrow gash in the solid rock, tourists watch entranced the effect of the waters on the rocky sides. Here and there, seemingly tired of the effort to stand upright through the centuries, the sides of the gorge appear to have leaned toward one another, until an intervening rock cast itself into the narrow space and held the walls apart. Trunks of trees and jutting rocks form footbridges across the chasm a hundred feet below the tourists' feet, as they stand admiring the glint of the noon-day sun upon the falling water.

Maligne Canyon is a mecca for visitors to Jasper Park Lodge, the splendid log-cabin hostelry of the Canadian National Railways, and rightly so, for there are few natural rock formations to equal in interest those found in the canyon. The Devil's Potholes, curious indentations in the solid rock over which the Maligne River flowed before the Canyon was worn to its present depth, are holes worn deep in the surface rock by the action of swirling flood waters, when a large stone has been whirled round and round in an untiring circle until the stone itself was worn small and round, and deep circular holes have been ground into the surface of the rock, remaining as mute testimony to the power of rusting waters.

Maligne Canyon, while one of the most wonderful formations to be found in the Rocky Mountains, is but one of the many natural attractions of Jasper National Park. In addition there are the snow-capped peaks on every side; the glaciers of Mount Edith Cavell and the mountains surrounding Maligne Lake, the Hoodoos of the Cavell motor highway and hundreds of others. Wild animal life is abundant, and the calm peace of the out-of-doors is assured to the tired holiday-seeker.

And in addition to the natural beauties of the Park, a commodious log cabin bungalow hotel; with excellent cuisine and all the comforts of the modern city hotel, provides a starting point from which parties may radiate by motor or pack-horse or afoot to travel by motor road or pack trail into the very heart of the wilderness. It was the addition of the comforts and conveniences of Jasper Park Lodge to the beauties of Jasper National Park which caused one noted American traveller to exclaim: "At last, I have found the place, where God and man go fifty-fifty to produce perfection."

(Received too late for insertion last week—Editor).

When the "Echoes" comes again, we cannot be far behind. We must answer.

The rain has certainly proved a blessing, if only for the late grains. Feed at least should now now be safe.

Looking round the district one does see a good crop here and there, but they are few and far between. Your figures, Mr. Editor, about hit the mark.

Axel Gabrielson, has returned from Winnipeg, after disposing of the bulk of his cattle.

They are keeping our J.P.s busy these days. Last week Messrs J. W. Coe and H. B. Polkinghorne had six charges to dispose of. These together with others of late are getting the district anything but a good name.

It is rumoured that the C. P. R. intend going as far as Lloydminster this year. I said, "rumoured."

Mr. John Proctor has had his residence removed safely from Artland to Marsden.

The Manitou Lake telephone system is now installed at Marsden. All that is required is for the government line to complete.

We are glad to hear that Mr. P. M. Chapman is recovering from his recent accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Scott have spending a few days in Edmonton.

Work has been started on the station and section house at Marsden.

Lloydminster And Chauvin Break Even With Game Each

Lloydminster and Chauvin broke even in a couple of baseball games, which were played at Lloydminster, Wednesday, August 12th, in the afternoon and evening.

In the first game Chauvin won from the locals by a wide margin of 12-4. The play was very ragged, McGregor, who pitched for Lloydminster received poor support from the field.

The line-up for the game was as follows:—

Chauvin: Cahill, p; Rumhill c; Scott 1b; Dundas 2b; Vanance 2b; Stewart ss; R. Vanance lf; Fountaine cf; Litchfield rf.

Lloydminster: McGregor p; Burge c; Rendell 1b; F. Brown 2b; Bellward 3b; W. Brown ss; Clarence Cuthbert lf; Charles Cuthbert cf; Smith rf.

The game in the evening was closely contested, Lloydminster taking the big end of a 6-3 score.

A few changes were made in the line-ups. D. Vanance pitched for Chauvin and Cahill played left field. E. Vanance was at the third base. The rest of the players had the same position as in the first game.

For Lloydminster, W. Brown pitched. Andrews was at third base. Bellward short stop. Ren ther first base. Rendell and McGregor on the fence, and the balance as in the first game.

C. H. Moxley umpired.

Wainwright U.F. & U.F.A Political Convention

The annual convention of the Wainwright U.F.A. and U.F.W.A Political association was held in Wainwright on August the 11th. A very interested audience was there to hear the members annual report of Provincial Public Affairs. The main subject discussed by Mr Love was that of Public Finance. He traced the development of our system of taxation from the development of our province and advocated an income tax as the only hope of balancing the Provincial budget. The convention of some forty members unanimously passed a resolution endorsing Mr. Love's stand on the uestion. The member also showed with the aid of charts how the government had reduced controllable expenditures on public services by approximately one million dollars since taking over the reins of office in 1921. The question of Education was discussed and it was shown by Mr. Love that although the rate had been changed the actual grants to schools were increasing year after year. The road expenditures of the government were referred to and it was shown that although the Government is spending less on road grants that the past administration the Wainwright constituency is receiving approximately twice the amount per year than it received under the Patronage system. The work done by the U. F. A. in developing Co-operative marketing was then referred to. It has led to the organiation of provincial boards to work out the details of two new pools, namely the Live Stock Pool and the Dairy Products Pool. Every local is urged to give these the utmost consideration at the demand for these pools must come from the producers. The election of officers for the ensuing yearwas held at the close of the Convention at which the following were elected. President: Herbert Spencer, Edgerton; First Vice-President: Mrs. C. Miller, Chauvin; Second Vice-President; Theo. Doley. Directors: Grover Lasell, Chauvin; James Tooth, Chauvin; Fred Ford, Heath; Wm. Pollard, Wainwright; C. T. Hill, Irma. Sec'y-Treas.; Fred Ford, Heath. A hearty vote of thanks was given to the retiring Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. J. H. Clipson, for the excellent service rendered the association during the past three years. A short meeting of the executive was held after the Convention when arrangements were made for Mr. Love to make a tour of hte constituency during October, 1924, when a series of public meetings will be held for the purpose of discussing Public affairs.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:
Dear Sir:-
I notice in your comments on the success of the Fair and the work of the Directors, you failed to mention one important feature which tends to make the Fair the success it has attained and that is the Chronicle. Practically every month of the year there appears some reference to the Chauvin Agricultural Society. Thus the people have become interested in spite of themselves and only by the interest and support of the people can a fair hope to be a success. Trusting the Fair and the Chronicle shall continue to co-operate and succeed.

Editorial Comment

The most unique work of democracy, in all history, is being accomplished in North America. Something that has never been tried in the history of mankind before—a welding together of people of different races and tongues into a free democracy, speaking one language and governing themselves under a representative government.

The true nature of this mighty work will best be known when the days in which we now live have become history. We, to-day, who are taking part in the immense movement can only see it in part; and our attention is given most easily to the unsatisfactory and displeasing present effects than toward the end to which we should be working: viz, the welding of all into a free democracy.

This work is one of the greatest magnitude, and in no section of North America is this work being accomplished more rapidly and thoroughly than on the prairies of the Canadian north-west. At the present time on the Canadian prairies, no less than forty-two per cent of the dwellers are foreigners and fifty per cent of our prairie school children are foreign; and some hundred and five thousand of the people of the prairies are unable to speak the English language. No little wonder that we are, at times, somewhat doubtful about being able to instal Canadian ideals into the minds, hearts and affections of such a large number of foreign-speaking persons.

The Fathers of Confederation were happily inspired when they gave attention to the words of Psalm 72, verse 8: "He shall dominion also from sea to sea, and from the river to the ends of the earth," when selecting the name "Dominion" for Canada. Their vision was of a confederated Canada reaching from the Atlantic ocean to the waters of the Pacific ocean, and from the beautiful sweep of the St. Lawrence river to the end of the earth—the north pole.

Man's progress is slow. Nearly one thousand years after the words of this verse were written their fulfilment came to pass in the birth of the carpenter's son at Nazareth—the One who, being Saviour, should draw all men unto Him, so that in this way His teachings should have dominion over the world as it appeared to the ancient psalmist. Now, at a stage of history, perhaps three thousand years after the original writing the vision remains as a guiding light in the task of to-day.

To-day's task is, to accomplish politically, in Canada, that which the Saviour has accomplished in a spiritual sense. Viz., the conception of the ideal of brotherhood. A brotherhood that shall so influence our behaviour and conduct, that we shall be welded into a community who do right, because of their love of right and truth.

Among the Fathers of Confederation, one of the most picturesque figures was that of D'Arcy McGee, an Irishman, who for two-thirds of his life was a rebel against British rule. We will borrow from his speech to the assembly for his strong "individualism," sees unity accomplished through sincerity of effort by each individual. He says:

"All we have to do is, each for himself, to keep down dissensions which can only weaken, impover-ish and keep back the country; each for himself do all he can to increase it's wealth, its strength and its reputation; each for himself, you and you, gentlemen, and all of us, to welcome every talent, to hail every invention, to cherish every gem of art, to foster every gleam of authorship, to honor every acquirement and every natural gift, to lift ourselves to the level of our destinies, to rise above all low limitations and narrow circumscriptions, to cultivate that true catholicity of spirit which embraces all creeds, all classes an all races, in order to make of our boundless province, so rich in known and unknown resources, a great new northern nation."

Keep going straight ahead and you'll arrive.

We all want to see our town grow in prosperity and population.

How can the town prosper if we continually send our money away to cities for merchandise that can be purchased here?

And why do we send our money to the mail order houses? Is a question of economy, or is it a habit that is easily fallen into?

When next you have decided to buy something from the mail order house, think again and decide to give your merchant a chance.

Take a clipping from the catalogue or a copy and take it to your merchant.

You will be surprized at the very little difference in price, and in some instances the article may be purchased at a lesser price.

Don't make excuses for buying at the mail order house-----see that you first have specific reason for sending your money out of the town.

Our Short Story

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY GIFT

The map of that part of Europe in which began the great European war has been changing ever since it was a part of ancient Gaul. Centuries ago there was a kingdom composed largely of what is now Flanders. The capital was probably Ghent though the time of my story is so remote that one cannot be sure about this. The country was then governed by a queen who had the same name as the present ruler of Holland—Wilhelmina.

One day a farmer living on the outskirts of the capital said to his son, a strapping young man just come of age:

"Hans. I wish you to take into town a cartload of flowers. I learn that tomorrow is the queen's birthday, and there will be a great demand for the flowers on the part of courtiers to be stow upon her majesty. I hear she is both young and beautiful and that she will take a husband from one of her own subjects. Therefore many gals to the barn, he harnessed a mule to a lants will wish to bestow gifts upon her, and there is no gift that will so touch a woman's heart as flowers."

Hans obeyed his father. Going out cart and then drove into the garden. It was the month of June and there were many roses in bud and in bloom. Hans loved the roses better than any other flower and put so many in the cart that there was no room for any other flowers. However he knew that roses brought the best price, so he concluded to leave the load as it was. Then going to his room he put on the clothes he usually wore to the city, a doublet of dark blue and hose to match. Then girding on his sword—every one wore a sword in those days—he mounted his cart and drove the mule toward the capital.

Hans had no sooner reached the outskirts of the city than he met a young man in a very brilliant costume and with feathers in his hat and other marks of being a noble. Seeing the roses in the cart his eyes lighted with pleasure.

"How much for your roses?" he asked Hans.

"They are not for sale at present," replied the countryman. "If they are wanted here they will bring a better price when I approach the palace, for this is the queen's birthday, and there will be many gallants wanting flowers for gifts to her majesty."

The man abused Hans for a country pumpkin but Hans drove on, paying no attention to him. Hans was stopped many times by courtiers, sometimes men, sometimes women, and received many offers for his load, but he drove on, always saying, "If you are willing to give so much here what will I be offered when I reach the market place in the center of the city?"

Finally he stopped his mule at the palace gates and was about to drive into the courtyard when he was stopped by a sentry.

"I have a gift for her majesty Queen Wilhelmina," said Hans. "Let me pass."

The chamberlain happened to be looking out of the window at the time and, seeing a cartload of roses below, bethought himself that there was a fine opportunity to buy flowers with which to decorate the throne room, in which his royal mistress would that day receive her birthday congratulations. Running down and out, he said to Hans:

"How much for your roses, my man?"

"They are not for sale."

"But you must sell them. I wish to buy them for the queen. I will give you a thousand florins for them."

"I intend them for a birthday gift to her majesty."

The chamberlain looked at Hans as if he thought him daft.

"Come, come," he said coaxingly. "Don't be a fool. The queen will not accept a gift from such as you. But she must have your roses. So many are not to be had elsewhere. Drive them into the courtyard, and I will pay you."

"I will drive them into the courtyard but only as a gift for her majesty," replied Hans.

"We will see about that," cried the chamberlain angrily, and, taking the mule by the bridle he led him through the gateway into the court and stopped before a door of the palace. Then he went inside to summon servants to carry in the roses while he obtained the money to pay for them. He returned, leading half a dozen lackeys with baskets, and he held in his hands a bag containing a thousand florins. He found Hans standing before his cart with folded arms.

"Get out of my way," said the chamberlain.

"If you touch one of the flowers," said Hans, drawing his sword. "I will make a hole in you."

"Treason!" cried the chamberlain. "Guards!"

A dozen soldiers came running to the scene. The queen hearing the words "Treason!" and "Guards!" and fearing a plot or a revolution put her head out through an upper window and asked to know what was the matter.

"This countryman," said the chamberlain, "refuses to sell his roses, which I wish to decorate the throne room for your majesty's reception today."

"Perhaps you have not offered him enough for them," said the queen.

"I have offered him a thousand florins."

"That surely should be sufficient. Why will you not sell your roses my good man?"

"Because I have brought them for a birthday gift for your majesty."

"A birthday gift!" exclaimed the queen, surprised.

"I have told him," put in the chamberlain, "that your majesty would not accept a gift from such as he."

The queen looked down on the scene below for a few minutes without speaking. "The fellow," she said to herself has some boon which he wishes in return for his gift. Aloud she said: "I will accept your roses. Is there anything I can do for you to show my appreciation for your offering?"

"None, your majesty."

The queen was taken aback at this, but since she had given her royal acceptance of the gift she could not take it back. So she thanked Hans, and the lackeys carried in the roses, and Hans drove away, the courtiers and others who had collected laughing in their sleeves at him.

Hans drove back to the farm where his father, seeing the cart empty, asked him how much he had received for the roses.

"Nothing," Hans replied. "I presented them to the queen for a birthday gift."

Hans told his father what had occurred. The old man was much pleased until his son told him that when the queen asked him what she could do for him he said "nothing." Then the father abused him for a fool. But Hans replied that if showing one's loyalty to one's sovereign were being a fool then he was glad to be one.

Queen Wilhelmina waited a month before taking any further action in the matter of her gift of roses, then made inquiries as to whether Hans had sent in any request for a favor of any kind. When she was told that he had not she thought a great deal about Hans and what she should do in the matter. She considered 't beneath the dignity of a queen to accept a gift from a subject, certainly not one of lowly origin. She sent for him and when he appeared she said to him:

"I have need for your services, I am going to try you in the diplomatic service. There is a boundary dispute between me and King Carl, whose dominions adjoin mine on the east. My prime minister will instruct you as to the matter after which I wish you to proceed to King Carl and make as good a settlement as you can."

"But, your majesty," Hans stammered, "I am but a countryman, unskilled in"—

"Something tells me," the queen interrupted, "that what others have learned by study and experience you know intuitively. This is not a request, but a command. Go and on your return report to me what you have done. My chamberlain will provide you with necessary funds."

Hans after acquainting himself with the case he was to handle, dressed in proper apparel, went at the head of an embassy to King Carl, and, being closeted with him, the king steeled himself against the ambassador as he had against others. But Hans began at once to gain his confidence. He learned from the king on what he had set his heart and relinquished all claim to it. This enabled him to get what the queen wanted. The result was that he made a very satisfactory agreement. When he returned and reported what he had done the queen was very much pleased. She created him a her diplomat.

Hans, after acquainting himself with sent his father a thousand florins, the amount he had been offered for the roses, and the old man who had heard of his son's preferment, about which every one was talking, wondered how such a fool had been able to achieve such honors so far beyond his station.

Hans grew continually in influence. Those were warlike times, and ambassadors had tried to gain their ends by threatening war, and if they did not try threats they resorted to chicanery. Hans plan was always as the one he had tried with King Carl. He sought to discover what was for the best interests of both parties and when he had done so to convince the sovereign with whom he dealt of the fact. In this way he achieved a reputation for statecraft which was really nothing but common sense and a liberality which in the end resulted in his sovereign's profit.

One day Queen Wilhelmina asked Hans what she should do for him beyond what she had done to repay him for the valuable services he had rendered her in preventing war.

"Permit me," replied Hans, "on your next birthday to send you a cartload of roses."

When Queen Wilhelmina was assured that Hans would name no other favor she granted it, and on the anniversary of the day that he had made the first gift he made another, only this time the cart was driven by one of his servants. When Hans went to the palace to offer his congratulations, instead, as before, of being informed by the chamberlain that the queen would not accept a gift from such as he, that functionary announced to him that her majesty had decided that a proposition of marriage from him would be agreeable to her.

There was much debate among the queen's subjects who knew the story of Hans' birthday gift whether he made it simply as an act of homage to a sovereign or whether he aspired to her heart and hand. But no one except Hans knew that, and he never told.

Battle River U.F. & U.F.A. Political Convention

With upward of sixty delegates present the Battle river constituency was well represented at the annual convention of the U. F. Battle River Political Association which was held at Wainwright Tuesday and Wednesday August 12th and 13th. A session was held in the forenoon and afternoon of each day; and the time was well filled by the various speakers, questions, discussions, resolutions, and some musical items interspersed through the proceedings. Among those contributing musical numbers were A Aiken of Moyerton; R. A. Beck, of Czar; A. E. Peterson of Frog Lake; Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Nicholson, of Dina. Proceedings were opened with the president, Mr. A. F. Aiken, in the chair; Mr. R. A. Beck occupying the secretarial position. Resolutions this year were not as numerous as has been the case in preceding years, but there were more speakers to address the meeting. Great interest was aroused by the various speakers, who in general had much information to lay before the delegates; the speakers, in fact, making it unnecessary for many questions to be asked, the information being given in their speeches.

During the course of two lengthy addresses to the delegates Mr. H. E. Spencer M. P. outlined the work accomplished by the Progressive party and outlined his own efforts in the last session of the house at Ottawa. His remarks regarding the formation of the so called "Ginger Group" proved very satisfactory to his hearers, who supported his line of action in this matter.

Mrs. R. B. Gunn addressed the gathering, giving full details of the Egg and Poultry Pool, describing how it was intended to operate, and soliciting careful consideration of the same by each local in the riding.

The Dairy Products Pool scheme was similarly dealt with by J. R. Love M.L.A. and the Wheat Pool by Mr. Enzenau, M. L. A.

Hon Mr. Reid gave a comprehensive resume of the affairs of the constituency, explaining at length the various actions during the past year. Mr. Norman Tucker, of Vermilion, had for his subject the cattle pool, outlining the history and advantages of this plan in a very lucid manner.

Mr. Irving, M. P. Calgary, gave a lengthy and interesting speech outlining the activities of the Ottawa house. During the past session the progressives and group system had met with a fair measure of success. Mr. Spencer he believed had worked harder for his constituents than any other member of the house. The antiquated rules of the house kept them from passing legislation that would probably help the groups of this country. Mr. Irving proved a most interesting and forceful speaker.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, A. F. Aiken, Moyerton; Vice-president, A. E. Peterson, Frog Lake; Secretary-Treasurer R. A. Beck, Czar; Directors, H. E. Gudim, Monitor, for Coronation; C. Trigg, Cadogan, for Ribstone; W. Skinner, Riverton, for Alexandria; N. Tucker, Vermilion, for Vermilion; W. J. Chester, St. Paul for St. Paul; C. E. Miller, Chauvin, for Wainwright.

The convention as a whole was a very good one, and the delegates returned home well pleased with the proceedings.

Scotch Arrive

Another large party of Scotch crofters are expected to reach Western Canada this month to join those who arrived earlier in the year. all of whom have been satisfactorily located on farms of their own or in employment with farmers.

She: "What should I do, doctor? My husband talks in his sleep?"

Doctor: "Give him a chance to talk during the day."

"I swear you are the first girl I ever kissed."

"Well, I won't let you practise on me."

"A man would be crazy to go to a place like that," said the guide, pointing to the insane asylum.

One: "For what is Scotland famous besides whiskey?"

Two: "Who cares?"
